Public survey for European Democracy Action plan

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Introduction

The aim of the European Democracy Action Plan is to ensure that citizens are able to participate in the democratic system through informed decision-making free from interference and manipulation affecting elections and the democratic debate.

The Commission has started the preparation of the European Democracy Action Plan and would like to consult the public on three key themes:
- Election integrity and how to ensure electoral systems are free and fair;
- Strengthening media freedom and media pluralism;
- Tackling disinformation.

In addition, the consultation also covers the crosscutting issue of supporting civil society and active citizenship.

When providing your contribution, you may opt to fill in one or more of the four sections, according to their relevance to your areas of interest. Please note that a specific public consultation on the Digital Services Act package is open until 8 September 2020 and covers also elements relevant in the context of the European Democracy Action Plan.[1]

Questions on election integrity and political advertising

Fair democratic debates and electoral campaigns as well as free and fair elections in all Member States are at the core of our democracies. The space for public debate and electoral campaigns has evolved rapidly and fundamentally, with many activities taking place online. This brings opportunities for the democratic process, public participation and citizen outreach but also challenges, inter alia concerning the transparency of political advertising online and possible threats to the integrity of elections. Ahead of the 2024 European Parliament elections, changes to the role of European political parties might also be considered.

(i) Transparency of political advertising

Q1 Have you ever been targeted[2] with online content that related to political or social issues, political parties (European or national), political programmes, candidates, or ideas within or outside electoral periods (‘targeted political content’)?

[2] Paid for ads and any form of personalised content promoted to the user

- 1. No, never
- 2. Yes, once
- ☑ 3. Yes, several times
- 4. I don’t know

Q2. If you receive such targeted political content, are you checking who is behind it, who paid for it and why you are seeing it?

- 1. No, I am not interested
- 2. I don’t know how to do it
- ☑ 3. Yes, occasionally
- 4. Yes, all the time
- ☐ 5. I don’t receive targeted political content

Q3. To what extent do you agree with the following statements related to targeted political content you have seen online?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Fully agree</th>
<th>Somewhat agree</th>
<th>Neither agree</th>
<th>Somewhat disagree</th>
<th>Fully disagree</th>
<th>I don't know /No reply</th>

Q5. Online targeted political content may make use of micro-targeting techniques allowing advertisers to target with high precision people living in a specific location, of a certain age, ethnicity, sexual orientation or with very specific interests. Do you think that:

<table>

</tr>
<tr>

</tbody>
</table>

Please explain

First of all, it is necessary to work on common definitions - micro-targeting can mean different things to different experts and platforms. While we do not support restricting targeting capabilities for political advertisement, we do agree that a level of reasonable verification and disclosures can help promote trust in electoral processes and political advertisement.

Q6. EU countries regulate offline political advertising on traditional media (e.g. press, television) in the context of local, national or EU elections. These rules limit the amount of airtime or maximum expenditure permitted for political advertising on broadcast TV or print media. Do you think similar rules should also apply to online targeted political content?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
Please explain your answer

While in traditional media the time or space for the TV and the press is limited, this is not the case in digital media. In digital media, space to communicate is unlimited.
CCIA emphasises the importance of freedom of expression. We would caution against limiting the airtime of online political content.
CCIA would welcome clarifications on online political advertising. For instance, we support more transparency and verification of advertisers.

(ii) Threats to electoral integrity

Q1. Do you believe the following are real and existing threats to the electoral process in the EU and its Member States?

<table>

(iv) European Elections

Q1. In your opinion what initiatives at national level could strengthen monitoring and enforcement of electoral rules and support the integrity of European elections (multiple selections possible)?
1. Strengthened sharing of information and monitoring activity across borders and between authorities
2. Technical interfaces to display all political advertisements as defined by online service providers
3. Technical interfaces to display all advertisements (political or not)
4. Clear rules for delivery of political ads online in electoral periods, similarly to those that exist in traditional media (TV, radio and press)
5. Independent oversight bodies with powers to investigate reported irregularities
6. Enhanced reporting obligations (e.g. to national electoral management bodies) on advertisers in a campaign period
7. Enhanced transparency of measures taken by online platforms in the context of elections, as well as meaningful transparency of algorithmic systems involved in the recommendation of content
8. Privacy-compliant access to platform data for researchers to better understand the impact of the online advertisement ecosystem on the integrity of democratic processes
9. Greater convergence of certain national provisions during European elections
10. Stronger protection against cyber attacks
11. Higher sanctions for breaches of the electoral rules
12. Other – please specify

Please explain your answer

We believe that it is up to national authorities to clarify online electoral rules. This burden shouldn’t be up to digital services providers. CCIA members would welcome clear guidance on what is allowed and prohibited. These rules should be technology neutral, proportionate and reasonable. The European Commission should work towards unification of the rules via enhanced cooperation, guidelines etc.

Q2. In your opinion what initiatives at European level could strengthen monitoring and enforcement of rules relevant to the electoral context?
1. Strengthened sharing of information and monitoring activity across borders and between authorities
2. European-level obligations on political advertising service providers
3. European-level shared online monitoring and analysis capability being made appropriately available to national authorities
4. Cross border recognition of certain national provisions
Questions on strengthening media freedom and media pluralism

Freedom of expression and freedom and pluralism of the media are enshrined in the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union (Article 11), and their protection is underpinned by Article 10 of the European Convention on Human Rights. They are essential elements of a healthy democratic system. Whilst in general the EU and its Member States score well on a global scale, there are signs of deterioration (as shown by the Media Pluralism Monitor) and the sector is facing challenges from threats to the safety of journalists (including strategic lawsuits against public participation – ‘SLAPP lawsuits’) to the transformation of the sector, with digital technologies and new players transforming the established business model of advertising revenue. The COVID-19 pandemic has worsened the situation, both in the EU and outside of the EU, from restrictive national legislation to critical loss of revenues for the media sector.

Initiatives to strengthen media freedom and media pluralism will build in particular on the analysis and areas covered by the upcoming Rule of Law Report, with a focus on improving the protection of journalists, their rights and working conditions. Please note that the Commission also intends to propose, by the end of the year, an Action Plan for the Media and Audiovisual sector to further support the digital transformation and the competitiveness of the media and audiovisual sectors and to stimulate access to quality content and media pluralism.

(i) Safety of journalists / conditions for journalistic activities

Q1. Are you aware of issues regarding safety of journalists and other media actors or conditions for journalistic activities in your country?

☑ 1. Yes (please justify)
☐ 2. No (please justify)
☐ 3. I do not know

Please explain your answer
Many CCIA members provide tools and training to journalists and media actors, who play a critical role during elections.

For example,
- Google's Protect Your Election (https://protectyourelection.withgoogle.com/intl/en/) provides tools to help stay protected from digital attacks, and resources that support reliable election information and reporting.
- Cloudflare's Project Galileo (https://www.cloudflare.com/galileo/) equips journalists and politically and artistically important organizations with powerful tools to defend themselves against cyberattacks that would otherwise take them offline in an attempt to censor their work.
- The Facebook Journalism Project provides tools and training for journalists and works in consultation with the European Journalism Centre among others to create resources designed specifically for journalists to help them protect their accounts and themselves on Facebook.

Q1.1 If yes, what kind of issue?
- Lack of proper sanction applied to perpetrators of attacks against journalists – Yes/No
- Abuse of defamation laws or other laws aiming at silencing journalists and news media – Yes/No
- Lack of legal safeguards for journalistic activities – Yes/No
- Lack of institutions to protect journalists – Yes/No
- Online hate speech – Yes/No
- Cyberbullying – Yes/No
- Physical threats – Yes/No
- Other – please specify

Please explain your answer

As mentioned above, many CCIA members provide tools and training to journalists and media actors, who play a critical role during elections. For example, Google's Protect Your Election (https://protectyourelection.withgoogle.com/intl/en/), Cloudflare's Project Galileo (https://www.cloudflare.com/galileo/), and Facebook's Journalism Project (https://www.facebook.com/journalismproject).

Q2. Are you familiar with the concept of ‘strategic lawsuits against public participation’ (SLAPPs)?
- Yes
- No
- Don’t know

Q2.1 If yes, are you aware of such lawsuits in your own Member State?
- Yes
2. No
3. Don’t know

Please explain your answer

Q3. In your opinion, on which SLAPP related aspects should the European Union-level action be taken (multiple answers possible):
1. Regular monitoring of SLAPP cases in the European Union
2. Financial support for journalists facing SLAPP lawsuits
3. Rules on legal aid for journalists facing SLAPP lawsuits
4. Cross-border cooperation to raise awareness and share strategies and good practices in fighting SLAPP lawsuits
5. EU rules on cross-border jurisdiction and applicable law
6. None of the above
7. Other – please specify

Please explain your answer

Q4. Do you think that the EU should act to strengthen safety of journalists and other media actors / improve conditions for journalistic activities?
1. Yes (please justify)
2. No (please justify)
3. I do not know

Please explain your answer

CCIA encourages policy action that strengthens the safety of journalists and other media actors. CCIA understands and supports efforts to preserve news diversity and local news producers as these represent an essential part of any democracy. However, CCIA would caution against any favouritism towards national champions or legacy business models to the detriment of Europe’s digital economy and European consumers. We encourage a broader view of emerging business models and new competition dynamics, which tends to benefit consumers. For instance, publishers, like all companies, should be encouraged to adapt to the digital transformation and the accompanying changing competitive landscape.

Q4.1 If yes, how?
1. By issuing guidance – Yes/No
2. By setting up dedicated structured dialogue with Member States – Yes/No
3. By providing financial support – Yes/No
4. Other – please specify

Please explain your answer

Q5. Are you aware of any issues regarding the protection of journalistic sources in your country?
1. Yes (please provide concrete examples)
2. No
3. I do not know

Please explain your answer

Q6. Are you aware of any difficulties that journalists are facing when they need access information / documents held by public authorities and bodies in your country?
1. Yes (please provide concrete examples)
2. No
3. I do not know

Please explain your answer

(ii) Media independence and transparency

Q1. How would you characterise the situation with regards to independence of media and journalism in your country?

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>Not at all</th>
<th>To a limited extent</th>
<th>To a great extent</th>
<th>Don’t know</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>1. The government controls or exerts pressure on media outlets</td>

<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2. Powerful commercial actors control or influence editorial policy of media outlets</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
3. Journalists are afraid of losing their job or of other consequences and avoid voicing critical opinions

4. News media, in particular public broadcasters, provide balanced and representative information, presenting different views, particularly in times of electoral campaigns

Q2. How important is the support for independent journalism (including free lance journalists and bloggers/web journalists) and the protection of the safety of independent journalists to supporting democracy in the EU and internationally?

- 1. Very important
- 2. Important
- 3. Not important
- 4. Don’t know

Q3. Do you feel sufficiently informed about the ownership of the media outlets you are consulting?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No (please explain)
- 3. I do not know

Please explain

Q4. Should it be mandatory for all media outlets and companies to publish detailed information about their ownership on their website?

- 1. Yes (please explain)
- 2. No (please explain)
- 3. I do not know

Please explain

CCIA members want to help people better understand the sources of news content so they can make informed decisions about what they’re faced with. High transparency standards will make consumers better aware of the source and help them form their own opinions.

Q5. Should content by state-controlled media, where governments have direct control over editorial lines and funding, carry specific labels for citizens?

- 1. Yes (please explain)
2. No (please explain)
3. I do not know

Please explain

Q6. Do you think information from independent media and trustworthy sources should be promoted on online intermediary services (such as search engines, social media, and aggregators)?

1. Yes (please explain)
2. If yes, please give examples of how it could be achieved and how to distinguish sources to be promoted?
3. No (please explain)
4. I do not know

Please explain

Media plurality, freedom of information and freedom of expression is extremely important. Users should have the opportunity to express themselves online and make their own opinions based on a variety of valid content. Independent media and trustworthy sources should be able to promote their content online. However, any paid-for content should be labelled as 'sponsored' content to inform the consumers.

Q7. Do you think further laws or institutions should be put in place in your country to strengthen media independence and transparency in any of the following areas?

1. Transparency of state advertising and state support to news media / journalism – Yes/No
2. Transparency of media ownership – Yes/No
3. Promotion of information from independent media and trustworthy sources – Yes/No
4. Ownership limitations of commercial actors – Yes/No
5. Ownership limitations of political actors – Yes/No
6. Rules to prevent foreign (extra-EU) based manipulative and hate-spreading websites from operating in the EU - Yes/No
7. Other – please specify
8. No, what is in place is sufficient
9. No
10. I do not know
While we welcome efforts to strengthen media independence and transparency we worry that many of the above mentioned rules would be difficult to enforce. We believe that the responsibility should be shared. Often media and political actors are best placed to provide such information. For online platforms, it would be challenging to determine whether a website is operated by foreign actors, whether it receives state support, etc. Accordingly, rules that would require certainty on attribution would technically be difficult to enforce.

Q8. Do you think that the EU should act to strengthen media independence and transparency in any of the following areas? (Multiple answers possible)

☐ 1. Transparency of state advertising and state support to news media / journalism – Yes/No
☐ 2. Transparency of media ownership – Yes/No
☐ 3. Promotion of information from independent media and trustworthy sources – Yes/No
☐ 4. Ownership limitations of commercial actors – Yes/No
☐ 5. Ownership limitations of political actors – Yes/No
☐ 6. Other – please specify
☐ 7. No
☐ 8. I don’t know

Please explain your answer

Q9. If you answered yes to some of the options of the previous question, how should the EU act in these areas?

☐ 1. By issuing guidance – Yes/No
☐ 2. By setting up dedicated structured dialogue with Member States – Yes/No
☐ 3. By providing financial support – Yes/No
☐ 4. By adopting legislation – Yes/No
☐ 5. Other – please specify

Please explain your answer

Q10. EU countries have rules applying to media content such as news or current affairs, in general (e.g. rules on editorial independence, objectivity/impartiality), and in particular during elections (rules on scheduling and the balance of the programmes, moratoria on political campaign activity, opinion polls). Do you think similar rules should apply online?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. I don't know

Please explain your reply.

Q11. Should the role of and cooperation between EU media regulators in overseeing respect for such standards, offline and online, be reinforced?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. I don't know

Please explain your reply.

(iii) Cross-border cooperation, media and press councils, self-regulation

Q1. Are you aware of the existence of a press or media council or another media self/co-regulation body supervising journalistic ethical standards and conduct in your country?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No

Q1.1 If yes, what are the main activities of a press or media council or another media self/co-regulation body in your country?

- 1. Please specify
- 2. I do not know

Please explain your answer
Q1.2 Do you think press or media councils should be established in all EU countries?

☐ 1. Yes (please explain)
☐ 2. No (please explain)

Please explain

Q1.3 In order to address the challenges in the media sector, which activities should be prioritised by press and media councils or other media self/co-regulation bodies?

☐ 1. Incentivising exchanges of best practices and promoting journalistic standards, in particular online – Yes/No
☐ 2. Providing support for journalists in the process of digitalisation of media sector – Yes/No
☐ 3. Ensuring effective complaints handling mechanisms – Yes/No
☐ 4. Establishing links between journalists and citizens to increase trust – Yes/No
☐ 5. Contributing to the fight against disinformation online – Yes/No
☐ 6. Other - please specify

Please explain your answer

Q2. What role, if any, should the EU play to facilitate cross-border cooperation?

☐ 1. Provide financial support to media councils or other media self/co-regulation bodies – Yes/No
☐ 2. Set up an EU-level coordination network – Yes/No
☐ 3. Promote citizens’ awareness about their activities – Yes/No
☐ 4. Other (please specify)
☐ 5. No role

Please explain your answer

Questions on tackling disinformation
Designed to intentionally deceive citizens and manipulate our information space, disinformation undermines the ability of citizens to form informed opinions. Disinformation can also be a tool for manipulative interference by external actors.

(i) Scope

Q1. The April 2018 Commission Communication on Tackling online disinformation: a European Approach defines disinformation as verifiably false or misleading information that is created, presented and disseminated for economic gain or to intentionally deceive the public, and may cause public harm.[4]

Do you think this definition should be broadened and complemented to distinguish between different aspects of the problem?

[4] Public harm includes threats to democratic processes as well as to public goods such as Union citizens' health, environment or security. Disinformation does not include inadvertent errors, satire and parody, or clearly identified partisan news and commentary.

- 1. Yes (please specify)
- 2. No (please specify)
- 3. Don’t know

Please explain your answer

CCIA believes that the current definition captures what can be understood as ‘online disinformation’. We fear that broadening such a definition could create legal uncertainty as it could potentially create unclear grey zones.

Q2. So far, the European Commission has addressed the spread of disinformation through a self-regulatory approach, which has resulted in a Code of Practice on Disinformation being subscribed by major online platforms and trade associations representing the advertising industry. Do you think that this approach should be:[5]

[5] This question complements the questionnaire for the public consultation on the Digital Services Act, which focuses on illegal content

- 1. Continued as it is currently pursued (status quo)
- 2. Pursued but enlarged to a wider range of signatories
- 3. Pursued but combined with a permanent monitoring and reporting programme
4. Pursued but on the basis of a substantially reviewed Code of Practice

5. Pursued but accompanied by a regulatory framework fixing basic requirements for content moderation, data access and transparency, as well as respective oversight mechanisms

6. Pursued but accompanied by a regulatory package fixing overarching principles applicable to all information society services and establishing more detailed rules for dealing with disinformation under such general principles

7. Replaced by special regulation on disinformation

8. abandoned altogether, as all forms of restriction or control on content posted online by internet users and which is not illegal in nature (e.g. illegal hate speech, incitement to terrorism) could endanger freedom of speech

9. Other (please explain)

Please explain your answer

The EU and its Member States are increasingly considering policy responses to address the spread of misinformation online. It is worth noting that addressing disinformation and protecting elections integrity requires participation of many interested sectors - governments, regulators and election authorities, political parties and campaigners, online platforms, publishers as well as the general public. To reflect this multitude of actors, the Code should be pursued and enlarged to such players.

Q3. Have you ever encountered the following measures to reduce the spread of disinformation on social media platforms?

<table>

Q3.1 If yes, on which platforms have you encountered this?

☑ 1. Google

☑ 2. Facebook

☐ 3. Twitter
4. YouTube
5. WhatsApp
6. Other (Please specify)

Please explain your answer

It is also important to highlight that online platforms are different and each platform takes different actions to address disinformation. As a result, reporting on platforms actions will always require a certain level of differentiation, which makes it difficult to develop unified measurements and KPIs to assess the efficiency of these efforts.

(ii) Disrupting the economic drivers for disinformation
Q1. What type of measures should online platforms and advertising networks operators take in order to demonetise websites that create, present or disseminate disinformation?[6]

[6] Please note that this question refers to monetisation of websites that systematically publish false or misleading information, which is not illegal in nature. Monetisation via advertisement placements of web sites publishing illegal content is addressed within the context of a separate questionnaire for the public consultation on the Digital Services Act.

Q2. Paid-for content on issues of public interest is promoted on social media platforms both during and outside electoral periods. Due to the special prominence given to such paid-for content in news-feeds and other systems for displaying content online, users may be misled as to its credibility or trustworthiness, irrespective of the veracity of the content. Do you think that issue-based advertising / sponsored content of political context:

(iii) Integrity of platforms' services

Q1. Do you think there should be targeted regulation at EU or national level to prohibit deceptive techniques such as the use of spam accounts and fake engagement to boost posts or products?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. Don’t know
- 4. Other

Q1.1 If you replied yes to the previous question, what do you think should be the most appropriate measures to tackle the above-mentioned manipulative techniques and tactics?
1. Label the content as artificially promoted

2. Demote the content to decrease its visibility

3. Suspend or remove the content because the use of manipulative techniques is contrary to platforms’ terms of service

4. Suspend or remove the accounts engaging in manipulative techniques

5. Invest in internal intelligence systems to detect manipulative techniques

6. Invest in artificial intelligence to detect manipulative techniques

7. Other

Please explain

Most CCIA members already have such measures in place. We do not believe that making the rules compulsory will improve the situation. Like other forms of communication before it, the Internet can also be misused. We acknowledge the existence of rogue players who seek to inflict harm on others. To handle rogue players and illegal conduct, CCIA members continuously invest resources in technology and human review keeping their services safe and trustworthy. Companies regularly review their policies and programmes to ensure that everyone can stay safe and informed, and ultimately express themselves online. Online platforms have nothing but incentives to act upon notifications to expeditiously remove disinformation, fake news, or terrorist content.

What safeguards and redress mechanisms do you consider appropriate and necessary to avoid errors and protect users’ rights?

It is also important to highlight that each online platform is different and each platform thus takes different actions to address disinformation, and to handle redress mechanisms. Each measure must be proportionate and carefully balanced to safeguard users’ fundamental rights.

3. How many posts are factchecked
4. How to flag posts to be factchecked
5. Other, (please specify)

Please explain

Many CCIA members already regularly publish transparency reports on their content moderation practices and outcomes. When calling for more transparency, it is important to aim for meaningful transparency with a legitimate purpose. Policy-makers should be careful to not overwhelm consumers, businesses or authorities.

CCIA supports proportionate transparency requirements that strike a balance between the need for transparency, the protection against rogue players’ attempts to game the system, and the protection of operators’ trade secrets. Furthermore, any transparency and reporting obligation must adhere to existing EU legislation and fundamental rights.

Q10. Do you think it should be mandatory for online platforms to offer oversight bodies that enable users to seek recourse in case their account has been locked or content they have posted has been deleted?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. Don’t know

Q11. Do you think it should be mandatory for online platforms to provide points of contact for each Member State in their language?

- 1. Yes
- 2. No
- 3. Don’t know

Q12. What kind of data and/or transparency tools do users/researchers/fact-checkers need to be better able to detect and analyse disinformation campaigns, including by foreign state and non-state actors? Please specify.

Each online platform is different and each platform thus takes different actions to address disinformation. As a result, reporting on platforms actions will always require a certain level of differentiation, which makes it difficult to develop unified measurements and KPIs to assess the efficiency of these efforts.

Q13. How should the EU respond to foreign state and non-state actors who interfere in our democratic systems by means of disinformation (multiple answers possible)?

Yes | No | Don’t know
1. Analyse and expose state-backed disinformation campaigns
2. Conduct public awareness-raising campaigns
3. Support independent media and civil society in third countries
4. Impose costs on state who conduct organised disinformation campaigns
5. Develop more effective public outreach and digital communication strategies

Questions on supporting civil society and active citizenship

As a crosscutting issue, civil society faces increasing pressure, but plays a key role in the democratic system, holding those in power to account and stimulating public debate and citizen engagement, as well as in combatting some of the identified threats. In addition to this, participatory and deliberative democracy gives citizens a chance to actively and directly participate in the shaping of planned or future public policies. A major element in the context will be the upcoming Conference on the Future of Europe.

Q1. Do you think civil society is sufficiently involved in shaping EU policies, notably through consultation?

- [ ] 1. Yes
- [ ] 2. No
- [x] 3. Don’t know

If Q1=2 What more could be done?

n/a

Q2. Do you think civil society should be more involved in concrete EU-level actions to promote democratic debate?
